

School improvement through the effective use of technology with the Self-review Framework.

The Self-review Framework (SRF) provides a structure for reviewing your school's use of technology and its impact on school improvement. It is designed to help you review your use of technology in a structured way, which will in turn help inform your overall school improvement strategy and plans.

Additionally, because the SRF compliments the inspection frameworks, its use can provide compelling evidence in support of your school's inspection profile. A powerful tool packed with guidance will help you develop a strong vision and map a course for the future. Sign up now for immediate access at www.naacesrf.com

And now when you register for the SRF or renew your subscription, you will be able to access additional resources to help you on your journey:

- Register for the SRF today and get a free copy of the 100 Computing Lessons Planning Guide from Scholastic (worth £20)!
- Renew your SRF subscription and get a voucher worth £20 off the 100 Computing Lessons pack! (Usually £99)

Check out www.naace.co.uk/srf/extras for details of more SRF offers!